End User License Agreement

EULA | Limited personal license, software ownership and permitted use

Version 1.6 | 19 November 2026 | Effective upon publication. Earlier purchase promises and mandatory rights are preserved.

> LICENSED ACCESS ONLY. You are not buying the bot, its source code, its algorithms, its model, or the right to redistribute its paid feed.

1. Parties and scope

This End User License Agreement ("EULA") is between you and DallenTrades. It covers the BTC Signal Terminal interface, DallenTrades-owned software, protected content, and authorized access to server-generated outputs (together, the "Licensed Service"). It works with the Terms of Service and the specific plan terms accepted at checkout. It does not license a third party's intellectual property beyond the rights that party permits.

2. Limited grant

While you have a valid entitlement and comply with this agreement, DallenTrades grants a limited, nonexclusive, nontransferable, nonsublicensable license to use the hosted interface for your own personal use. The license covers only the purchased access term, subject to lawful suspension or termination. The Annual plan is $950 per year, automatically recurring until canceled; it is not lifetime access. Existing one-time purchases are not converted without express agreement. Ordinary browser operation and reasonable private notes are allowed. You receive no right to independently run the engine or obtain server-side code, model weights, training materials, or credentials.

3. Access is not ownership

The purchase does not transfer intellectual-property ownership, a business interest, exclusivity, or rights to improvements. DallenTrades and its licensors retain the rights they hold in software, protected displays and content, strategies expressed in protected code, models, branding, and documentation. Public market facts, your pre-existing materials, open-source components, and rights that law reserves to you do not become our exclusive property merely by appearing in the Service. Any applicable open-source license continues to govern its covered component.

4. One person, one active terminal

Your license is tied to the Whop account that paid for access. Sign in at https://dallentrades.com/member using that account. Discord linking is optional for terminal access and is used for included VIP channels. Do not sell, rent, lend, share or pool access, including through remote access, screen broadcasting or an API wrapper. The terminal permits one active session and one connected tab per member. The three-hour session limit begins when that login first accesses protected data. Signing in again does not start a new paid term. Access remains subject to verification even if a tab stays open.

5. Hosted operation and changes

The Licensed Service depends on hosting, internet connectivity, authentication, payment verification, and third-party market data. Updates may change displays, models, or features, and a feature can be unavailable during maintenance or a safety pause. We do not promise offline operation, continuous signals, an unchanging algorithm, or future feature availability. These limits do not erase the essential access promises accepted for your purchase or legally required remedies.

6. Restricted conduct

Except to the extent applicable law or an applicable component license expressly permits it, you may not: copy, modify, translate, distribute, or commercially exploit protected parts of the Licensed Service; reverse engineer, decompile, or disassemble protected software to recover nonpublic code or methods; automate bulk extraction or scraping of the paid feed; use outputs as a substitute feed for other people; or use protected software or nonpublic materials to clone the product or train a competing model without written permission. You may not remove ownership notices, defeat access controls, forge identity or entitlement data, or use stolen credentials.

7. AI tools and security

Do not send nonpublic source code, credentials, session tokens, or protected paid materials to an AI service, repository, or other third party for unauthorized reconstruction, redistribution, or extraction. This is a use restriction, not a claim that every browser-visible element is secret or technically impossible to copy. Security testing that reaches our private systems requires prior authorization unless applicable law provides otherwise. Report a suspected vulnerability privately, minimize any access to others' information, and do not expose credentials or member data.

8. Lawful activities remain permitted

Nothing here prohibits independently creating a product without misusing protected material; using public market facts; exercising nonwaivable interoperability, research, or other statutory rights; seeking legal advice; preserving evidence reasonably needed for a dispute; making an honest review; or reporting concerns to regulators or law enforcement. Limited screenshots reasonably necessary for those protected purposes are not banned merely because they show the interface. These exceptions do not authorize publishing another member's personal information or a complete paid feed.

9. Expiry, cancellation and termination

Canceling a recurring renewal in Whop keeps this license, verified terminal access and any included Discord VIP access in effect through the paid-through date. A nonrenewing day pass expires after 24 hours. The affected license ends at expiry, valid revocation or lawful termination under the Terms. A verified Whop refund request, refund or payment dispute revokes access under that membership. We check any separate eligible pass independently. Removing VIP leaves free Discord membership and unrelated roles in place, subject to normal server moderation. Provider processing can take time. After termination, stop using or redistributing protected content and remove unauthorized copies. You may keep receipts, lawful evidence and legally required records. Accrued rights and statutory remedies survive.

10. Trading decisions, remedies and liability

The terminal provides general market information and educational indicators. You choose your own trades and bear their market risks. Model support, directional accuracy, replays and hypothetical returns do not promise actual results. The member terminal does not place orders, manage accounts or hold funds. The Terms explain the warranty, liability and nonwaivable-rights provisions. You retain your right to complain, request a refund, dispute a payment or publish an honest review. The access handling for verified payment events described in section 9 does not determine whether a claim or refund is valid.

11. General terms and contact

Applicable law and the mandatory protections and forum rights described in the Terms apply. If part of this EULA is unenforceable, the remaining lawful terms continue. A materially broader license restriction will not be silently applied retroactively to an earlier purchase. Contact DallenTrades through Whop seller support or privately through the official DallenTrades Discord server. If membership chat is unavailable, Whop Help Center at https://help.whop.com can assist with locating seller contact information. Do not post secrets or personal account data in public channels.